Extent of the Loss.

The Disaster at Johnstown Growing in Proportion.

TWELVE THOUSAND LOST.

Recovering the Bodies of the Dead.

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND ALREADY SECURED.

Hundreds of Others Within Sight, But Cannot Be Properly Cared For—Remarkable Escapes from the Rushing Waters—Rapid Work in Rebuilding the Railroad—A New Graveyard Necessary. Other Echoes of the Greatest Disaster on Record.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 4.—Two hundred and fifteen bodies were received at the Pennsylvania railroad depot during the day. After being washed they were placed in caskets and arranged in long rows on the platform for identification. Only a few of the number were recognized. Some were so terribly disfigured as to be wholly unrecognizable. The waiting rooms in which the embalming was done presented a sickening sight. Human forms frightfully burned or cut or bruised were laid upon a rough board table, washed and coffined. If they were not recognized in a very short time they were placed on wagons and taken to the Adams Street school house, where they will be kept as long as possible, and then be buried in a grave bearing the legend "Unknown."

Swiftness of the Current.

To give some idea of the destructive power with which the volume of water from the lake struck East Conemaugh, it is only necessary to state that it took the round-house, with twenty-seven engines in and around it, 200 freight cars and about twenty passenger cars, including four Pullman cars. One train of passenger cars on the track was full of passengers. The conductor and engineer ran along the train warning the passengers to flee for their lives. Some started and a portion remained and went down. How many perished is not known. The track, depot, freight house and coal sheds are entirely washed away.

Mail Saved.

The mail matter on the eastbound train held there was saved in a marvelous way by two or three engines washing against the head of the train, and making a breaker that divided the water, which, being very rapid, did not close until the cars were passed. The mail was not even wet.

Remarkable Escapes.

There were some remarkable escapes. Mrs. John Geis was standing on Main street as the flood struck the houses, and a portion of a brick house fell on her. She was rescued through one of the windows.

Nannie Greenwood was in her house talking to her sister when the building was struck and her father, mother and two sisters were drowned, while she caught in an eddy, was whirled around into safety.

Mrs. Dr. John K. Lea, whose husband is lost, hung by her arms suspended for four hours in the water, supporting at the same time her aged mother, until both were rescued.

The most pathetic case yet brought to light is that of James Elgin. He had come to Johnstown to attend the wedding of his sister, which was to have taken place last night. He knew of the fact that the terrible disaster had taken place, but had no idea that his family were involved. His agony may be imagined rather than described when learning on his arrival yesterday that his mother and three sisters had been drowned, and his father demented over the terrible afflictions. The old gentleman was crying like a child and asking those he met: "Did you see them? did you see them go down; they will come back for the wedding. She is gone for her bridal wreath."

Recovering the Bodies

The total number of bodies recovered is now estimated by Adjutant General Hastings and the undertakers at 2,300, but the general has wired Governor Beaver that he believes the loss will amount to from 5,000 to 8,000 lives, and that time would produce ample proof of this. In order to facilitate the ascertaining of the number of the dead, all surviving residents of Johnstown and Cambria City have been required to register at various designated places. While the estimates of the undertakers is that the number of bodies recovered is 2,300, the actual record at the different improvised morgues in this vicinity do not show this, but the reason is mainly that at first, before order was established. Many corpses were buried immediately upon identification, without the formality of registering. The undertakers, however, had matters systematized to a wonderful extent by Sunday evening, and their services were most valuable.

The Dead at Nineveh.

Yesterday a corn patch of about an acre in extent at Nineveh was dug over by a volunteer force, and 138 corpses were recovered. The manner in which the ghastly find was made was purely accidental. A man walking over the field kicked at a clump of marland; overturning it, uncovered a woman's face. This indicated a rich find, and the people around were called in to assist, with the results above stated. This increases the list of dead in Nineveh to 230. The new dead were found under about four feet of alluvial deposit.

A Pitiable Story.

At 6 o'clock last night George Irwins, a resident of Hillside, Westmoreland county, was discovered in a dying condition in a clump of bushes just above the tracks of the Pennsylvania railway, about a mile below Johnstown. When stretched upon two railroad ties near the track below, his tongue extended from his mouth and he gasped as if death was at hand. With the assistance of stimulants he was in a degree revived and told a reporter the following story:

"I was visiting friends in Johnstown on Friday when the flood came up. We were submerged without a moment's warning. I was taken from the window of the house, in which I was then a prisoner, by Mr. Hay, the druggist at Johnstown, but lost my footing and was not rescued. I clung to a log until I struck the works of the Cambria Iron company, when I caught on the roof of the building. I remained there for nearly an hour, when I was knocked again from my position by a piece of a raft. I floated on top of this until I got down here and I stuck in an apple tree. I saw and heard a number of other unfortunate victims when swept by me appealing for some one to save them. One woman and two children were floating along in apparent safety when they struck the corner of a building and all went down together, and I would have rather have died than have been compelled to witness that sight. I have not had a bite to eat since Friday night, and, as heaven is my judge, I don't feel hungry. I am afraid my stomach is gone and I am about done for."

He was taken to a hospital by several soldiers and railroad men who rescued him.

Newspaper Enterprise.

It rained New York newspaper men for half an hour yesterday afternoon. None of them had reached here before. The Sun men got out off at Harrisburg, went back to New York, then to Albany, then to Buffalo, then to Cleveland, then to Ashtabula, then to Pittsburg and here by special train on the Baltimore and Ohio. The Tribune, World and Herald men went down from Harrisburg to Chambersburg and drove from there here, 140 miles, without getting out of their carriage seat. It cost these men $670 to get here from New York.

Imposing on Charity.

A boarding house crowd of twelve were arrested in a body down at Morrelville yesterday. They had been going to the relief committee and each representing himself as the head of a family, and drawing supplies. With these they had opened an impromptu grocery and clothing store and were doing a thriving business.

No Need of the Military.

The burgess of Johnstown and the acting chief of police deny that there was any one shot by ex-Burgess L. Dick. The only man shot was punctured in the leg by Constable Callahan for refusing to stop when ordered to do so on being detected in a theft.

There are now on duty in and about the ruins 400 police and deputies, which the burgess thinks is ample without the assistance of the military. Very few arrests have been made by order of the burgess. All men who refused to go to work are given twenty-four hours to get out of town.

Warning Just in Time.

The destruction of life at East Conemaugh was less than reported, not more than twenty-five having perished. The property, however, for three squares up from the river was totally destroyed. About 4:25 on Friday afternoon, word was telegraphed from South Fork that the dam was breaking. Almost immediately the whistles of several locomotives were blown so long and loud that the people, realizing that something was wrong, rushed from their homes, and seeing the water coming, fled to the mountains, but twenty-five being caught in the flood.

Ex-Postmaster General Hatton is safe at Ebensburg. William Henry Smith, manager of the Associated Press, says they were on the same train and escaped together.

Mail Service Resumed.

Stephen Collins, assistant superintendent of mails, has arrived here and made arrangements for resumption of the service east and west to-morrow.

Almost a Riot.

Yesterday evening Robert Bridgard, a letter carrier of Johnstown, mounted a wagon and began a speech to 300 men on the horrors of the "Huns," the necessity of good workmen for the clearing away of the debris and rescuing the dead. He closed with a bitter attack on the lazy "Huns" and "Poles," who have lived in the valley only a short time and refuse to turn a hand towards the relief of their suffering neighbors, yet are begging, and even stealing the provisions which the people of the United States are sending here. The crowd soon numbered nearly 1,000, which greeted Bridgard's words with cheers and shouts of approval. The feelings of the mob intensified in bitterness to such an alarming extent that an outbreak was feared, but it finally subsided to a calm, determined body, which adopted resolutions requesting that nothing be given to the "Huns" and "Poles" unless they worked for it, and if they would not work that they be warned to vacate the premises.

A Prayer Meeting in the Flood.

While the flood was at its height Rev. Beam, Episcopal minister, and 200 others took refuge in Alma hall. The water began to rise about the building and dash about its sides with awful fury. When Mr. Beam called to prayer every one responded, and while the voices of all rose in supplication to the God of storms Alma hall was saved and all in it. Rev. J. C. Grier, Presbyterian minister, held services in Morrell institute hall another building which withstood the fury of the storm—Sunday. Rev. Mr. Dwelin's father and sister were saved. It was reported that they were lost.

A New Graveyard Started.

A big new graveyard was started on the mountain side above Johnstown. There victims of Friday's disaster will be buried in ground belonging to the Cambria iron company. The graves will be numbered and no unidentified body will be interred until a complete description is taken.

Dynamite to Be Used.

The twenty-five acres of debris accumulated by the Pennsylvania bridge over the Conemaugh will be dynamited. The idea is to disintegrate the mass, start the logs down the river, catch the bodies thus dislodged and inter them as rapidly as possible.

Horrible Sights.

From the banks many charred remains of victims of flames and flood are plainly visible as the receding waters reluctantly give up their dead. Beneath almost every log or blackened beam, a glittering skull or the blanched remains of ribs or limbs mark all that remains of lifes hopes and dreams.

The Fire Put Out.

Since 10 o'clock Sunday night the fire engines have constantly played on burning ruins. At times the fire seems almost extinguished, but fitful flames suddenly break out afresh in some new quarter. The sensation of the morning has been the united remonstrance of the physicians against the extinguishment of the burning wreck. They maintain, with a philosophy that to anxious searchers seems heartless, that hundreds, if not thousands of lifeless and decaying bodies lie beneath this mass of burning ruins. "It would better be," they say, "to permit natures greatest scavenger, the flames, to pursue his work unmolested than to further decay the horde of putrefying bodies that lie beneath this debris. There can be but one result. Days will elapse before the rubbish can be sufficiently removed to permit the recovery of these bodies; and long ere that, every corpse will be a putrid mass, yielding forth those frightful emanations of decaying human flesh that can give but one result, the dreadful typhus. Every battlefield has demonstrated the necessity of the hasty interment of decaying bodies, and the stench that already arises is a forerunner of the impending danger. Burn the wreck! Burn the wreck."

A loud cry of indignation arose from the lips of the vast multitude and the warnings of science were lost in the eager demands of those that sought the remains of friends. The hose was again turned upon the hissing mass and rapidly the flames yielded to the supremacy of water.

Some Idea of the Loss of Life.

It is almost impossible to conceive the extent of the smoking ruins. An area of eight or ten acres above the dam is covered to a depth of forty feet with shattered houses, borne from the resident center of Johnstown. In each of these it is estimated there were from one to twenty-five people. This is accepted as data upon which to estimate the number that perished on this spot, and, if the data be correct, the bodies that lie beneath these ruins must number into the hundreds, if not the thousands.

The scene at the lower end of the city is beyond description. The half has not been told and never can be as to the full extent of the awful wreck.

Martial Law Prevails.

The town is now under martial law and everyone who goes about the place is challenged and required to give an account of himself. The water has subsided to a great extent and the streets in the main part of the town are free from water. The falling water has laid bare the terrible work of the flood and the full extent of the disaster is only being ascertained now. The streets are one sickening, foul smelling mass of wood and debris, and the work of searching for bodies has only fairly begun.

Loss of Life Growing.

The latest estimates put the loss of live at from 10,000 to 12,000.

A Baltimore and Ohio conductor, Frank McDonald, witnessed the first awful crash against the stone bridge. He said when he first saw the flood it was thirty feet high and gradually rose to at least forty feet. "I certainly think I saw 1,000 bodies go over the bridge. The first house that came down struck the bridge and at once took fire, and as fast as the others came down they were consumed. I believe I am safe in saying I saw a thousand bodies burn. It reminded me of a lot of flies on fly paper, struggling to get away, with no hope and no chance to save them."

Touching Scenes.

At the Kearnsville morgue one little boy named Elrod, in finding his father and mother both dead, seized a hatchet, and for some time wouldn't let no one enter the place, claiming that the people were lying to him and wanted to rob him of his father and mother.

One sad incident was the sight of two coffins in the Gautier grave yard, while nobody was around to bury them except a young woman gazing at them in a dazed manner, while the rain beat on her unprotected head.

Iron Works to Be Rebuilt.

Col. James A. McMillan, of the Cambria iron works, said last night: "In from ten to twelve days we will have our works in operation, and I feel confident we will be making rails at our own works inside of fifty days. As we employ about 5,000 men in our works, I think our renewal of operations will give the people more encouragement than can be imagined."

Rebuilding the Railroad.

The Pennsylvania railroad has spanned the Conemaugh and at 9 o'clock yesterday evening ran a train one mile above the Johnstown station. This is a most remarkable work.

FROM PITTSBURG.

Accounts of the Great Disaster as Gathered at That City.

PITTSBURG, June 4.—A steamboat was secured by the Allegheny city councilmanic committee yesterday and will leave to-day to explore the Allegheny river up as far as the Kiskiminitas for dead bodies. The latter will be taken out of the water as a sanitary precaution.

Asking for Workingmen.

A message for the chamber of commerce was received last night from Adjt. Gen. Hastings, asking for 1,000 men with axes, picks, shovels, etc.

Establishing Railroad Connection.

Train Dispatcher Culp stated yesterday that by 4:30 they would have two tracks laid to the bridge at Johnstown, and by 8 o'clock two tracks would be laid two miles east of Johnstown. There are 5,000 laborers on the ground.

Superintendent Patton, of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, announced last night the Baltimore and Ohio would be open to-morrow morning for through traffic to the east. The road has been open to the west all the time.

In the Water Seventeen Hours.

Dr. H. Phillips, of the east end, has just returned from Johnstown. He was visiting his mother and there were five people in the house besides himself when the flood came. Dr. Phillips was the only person who escaped death, and he was only rescued after being in the water for seventeen hours.

Died to Save Others.

A Times' Johnstown special says: Last night while coming down Main street my attention was attracted to a beautiful woman, whose facial expression told of a broken heart. Being asked what she had lost, she said: "The kindest hearted husband that ever graced a home would still be with me had he not sacrificed his life in the rescue of others. For ten minutes before the dreadful torrent came down upon us he had been carrying people from the houses across the street to the second floor of our own house. He crossed the street the seventh time to rescue a lady, but failed to return. That is all I know. My heart will burst with grief."

The lady was Mrs Lindsay, the wife of the most prominent wallpaper man of Johnstown, and the daughter of Mr. Ludwig, the wholesale liquor dealer.

Army Officers at Johnstown.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—At the request of Adjt. Gen. Hastings, Maj. Gen. Schofield, acting secretary of war, two army officers, who volunteered their service, has been detailed to assist Gen. Hastings in maintaining order at Johnstown. These officers are Capt. Cageby and Lieut. Miller.

A Baby's Perilous Trip.

PITTSBURG, June 4.—John Crimes, while searching amid the debris in the Allegheny opposite Verona, came across a baby snugly resting in its cradle. It had floated a long distance on its perilous trip, and had a most miraculous escape.

RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS.

A Generous Public Responding to the Cry of Distress.

NEW YORK, June 4.—About 200 leading citizens met at the city hall and formed a Johnstown relief committee with Mayor Grant as chairman. This committee appointed an executive committee headed by Gen. Sherman. An address to the citizens was drawn up and adopted and about $60,000 was subscribed on the spot. The Stock Exchange raised $15,000, the Produce Exchange $10,000, and the Mail and Express $7,500 in a short time. These amounts will be largely increased. The other exchanges are also raising large sums.

Theaters are arranging benefit performances. The police and fire departments have authorized firemen and policemen to circulate subscription lists. The newspapers have all opened funds.

G. A. R. AID ASKED.

The Different Posts Called on to Aid the Flood Sufferers.

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 4.—The following general order was issued last night:

HEADQUARTERS G. A. R., DEPARTMENT OF OHIO.

General Order No. 5.

A most distressing accident by flood has laid waste a large portion of the department of Pennsylvania, in the vicinity of Johnstown, destroying that city from the face of the earth, and resulting not only in great destruction of property, but in great loss of life.

Many of our comrades who but last week were in good circumstances are to-day naked, penniless, homeless and without means to bury their dead. Active measures should be taken immediately for their relief. Special meetings of posts should be held at once and contributions of cash, food, clothing and bedding should be forwarded to Col. William V. Lawrence, A. Q. M. General, who has gone to Johnstown, Pa., to distribute the relief contributed by this department.

Posts will act on this notice through the press without waiting for the official copy of the same. By order,

S. H. HURST, Department Commander.
JOHN T. RAPER, Assistant Adjutant General.

Pennsylvania Railroad's Relief.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, held yesterday, a resolution was unanimously passed donating $20,000 in aid of the sufferers by the recent flood at Johnstown and other points upon the line of the road. This in addition to the $5,000 subscribed by the company at Pittsburg.

Before the meeting adjourned the members of the board and the executive officers of the company who were present contributed individually an additional $5,000, to be expended through the committee on finance.

Governor Beaver's Proclamation.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 4.—Governor Beaver has issued a proclamation, in which he says: "The most conservative estimate place the loss of life at 5,000 human beings and property at $25,000,000. Shoes and clothing of all sorts for men, women and children are greatly needed. Other localities have suffered to some extent in the same way, but not in the same degree. Late advices would seem to indicate that there is a great loss of life and property along the west branch of the Susquehanna, and localities from which we can get no definite information."

Chicago's Contribution.

CHICAGO, June 4.—At a mass meeting of the business men and others held here, liberal donations in money were subscribed and a draft for $5,000 was forwarded to the chairman of the relief committee at Pittsburg, for the benefit of the sufferers by the flood in Pennsylvania. Another draft for a like amount will go forward to-morrow. The sum subscribed during this week will probably exceed $20,000. Subscriptions are being placed with all the associations and societies throughout the city.

Relief From Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Penn., June 4.—Governor Taylor has issued a proclamation calling on the people of Tennessee, in the name of God and humanity, to give of their abundance in aid of the stricken people of Pennsylvania. He calls on all state banks to act as repositories. Relief measures have been set on foot here and public meetings will be held at once.

The American has started a fund for the sufferers which is growing handsomely. A car loaded with clothing, etc., was sent out this morning.

Cincinnati Responds.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—The mayor has issued a proclamation calling for aid in behalf of the Johnstown flood sufferers. The chamber of commerce has appointed a committee to receive contributions and forward the same to their destinations. A large amount has already been subscribed and sent to Johnstown, and more will follow to-morrow.

Relief from New Jersey.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 4.—Mayor Van Cleefe called a meeting of citizens last night, at which $500 was subscribed and a committee appointed to raise funds for the Johnstown sufferers. The Masons and other bodies are co-operating.

THE CRONIN INQUEST.

Nothing Startling Developed from Examining Witnesses.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The evidence given at the coroner's investigation in the Cronin case yesterday, was almost entirely a repetition of facts already published, dealing with the identification of the body, the hiring the rig, renting of the cottage and of the flat on Clark street, and the other occurrences preliminary to the disappearance and discovery of the body.

The only new development was the statement of Carlson, the owner of the cottage, that P. O. Sullivan, the ice man, had told them that he was acquainted with the mysterious tenants and would be responsible for the rent. Mrs. Conklin and Frank Scanlan, both testified in response to questions that Cronin had said that Alexander Sullivan wanted him out of the way, and that his friends would know where to look in case he was murdered. The inquest will be resumed.

ALMOST MIRACULOUS.

A Bullet Strikes the Spectacles of an Old Man and He Escapes Uninjured.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—George Reese, an old man living at 28 Siller street, had an almost miraculous escape from serious and permanent injury early yesterday morning. He was on his way to work, and was passing the corner of Sixth and Lodge alley when a bullet struck the right glass of his spectacles.

The glass was shattered, and the bullet fell at his feet. He was so startled at the occurrence that he could not speak for a minute, but shortly recovered. Investigation disclosed that he was uninjured, even by the particles of glass. It is believed that the ball was fired from a Flobert rifle from a neighboring grocer, and the matter is being thoroughly investigated by the police, to whom the affair was reported.

Sixteen Lives Lost.

RACINE, Wis., June 4.—Robert York, claiming to be second mate of the schooner Isaac Houston, tells a story of the Houston being shipwrecked and sixteen lives lost. He says the Houston when six miles off Milwaukee, during the storm of Friday night, broke completely in two, and Capt. Hudson, his wife and two children, First Mate Fowler and eleven of the crew perished. York also claims that a sailor named Joseph Bouts and himself locked arms over a spar, and after being in the water thirty-two hours came ashore this side of Milwaukee. Lake men here give York's story little credence.

It is Finally Postponed.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 4.—President Fitzgerald has issued an order postponing the National convention of the Irish National league called for the 9th and 10th of July, at Philadelphia, until after the present session of the British parliament, in compliance with the cabled advice of Mr. Parnell. The postponement is made in order to secure the attendance, if possible of two or three Nationalist members of parliament.

The Samoan Treaty.

It Has Not Reached the State Department,

BUT IT IS HOURLY EXPECTED.

It will Not Be Made Public Until Sent to the Senate for Ratification—Postoffice Appointments to Slacken Until Congress Meets—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The full text of the Samoan treaty, as practically finished at Berlin, has not reached the state department, but is expected to be here by cable on Wednesday, at the latest. Different clauses of the agreement have been cabled here as fast as they have been agreed upon, and have been returned to Berlin with such suggestions as the president has seen fit to make as the changes. All of these changes in the clauses have not yet been agreed to by other members of the conference, and until this is done the full text to the treaty cannot be received here.

It is expected that the cabinet will, at its meeting on Friday, give the treaty thorough consideration, and unless radical changes are suggested the commissioners will be authorized to sign at once. As the treaty will have to be ratified by the senate the state department will make no part of it public until it has gone to that body. The department asserts that this conference agreement amounts to a full-fledged treaty between these powers, and the purpose of conference is not, as has been stated, merely to construe the existing treaty.

Smaller points yet to be settled by the commissioners are upon the question of concessions asked for by the German government looking to the isolation of the German plantation in Samoa from settlement, where possible, for the prevention of further disagreements between natives and German residents.

A Halt in Postoffice Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Presidential postoffice appointments will slacken up from now on until congress meets, unless in cases where removals are made before the expiration of a term. There were about a thousand postal confirmations made by the senate four years ago. These terms will not expire until next winter, when they will along about one hundred or two hundred a month, just fast enough to make things interesting.

Two Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Two appointments were made yesterday. Charles L. Knapp, of New York, to be consul general at Montreal, and Alex. J. Reed, of Wisconsin, to be consul at Dublin. The Montreal appointment disappoints about fifty candidates for that place, which pays $4,000 per annum. There were applicants from nearly every state, but the majority were New Yorkers.

The New Census Bureau.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The census bureau will open operations about next December, and the two or three thousand applicants who will then have failed to become consuls can probably get government employment as enumerators.

The President's Callers.

WASHINGTON, June 4. The president saw no callers until the hour for the usual reception at 1 o'clock had arrived. There were about seventy-five people in line to pay their respects.

A RACE WAR.

Whites Cause the Shutting Down of a Mill Because Negroes are Employed.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 4.—The bad feeling which has existed here for some time between the whites and negroes in Gretna, opposite New Orleans, broke out again yesterday, but without serious results. The Union oil mill, which employes a force composed of half negroes and half whites, was waited on by the latter, and ordered to discharge all its negro employes. To the demand the manager responded by closing down the mill and discharging all the hands, white and black. The negro employes, on leaving the mill, were stoned by white hoodlums, but no one was seriously injured.

A committee of whites waited on Mr. Wagner, the Republican sheriff of the parish, Jefferson, and informed him that the administration of the parish affairs was not satisfactory to them. He was compelled to suspend a negro and appoint a white man in his place as chief deputy, and also to remove the prisoners confined in the jail to the penitentiary. Last night Gretna was placarded with posters warning Wagner to appoint none but white men to office. If he refuses, an attempt will be made to remove him by force. The managers of the Union Oil company waited on the governor and asked him to protect their employes from violence.

Central Press Association Sued.

CINCINNATI, June 4. A special to The Commercial Gazette from Columbus, O., says: "Dr. J. H. Warner has brought suit against the Central Press Association for $2,200, claiming the same for twenty-months' labor as editor, etc."

Killed by His Wife.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 4. Joseph W. Arnold, a wealthy farmer, who resided two miles from this city, was shot and killed yesterday by his wife, as the result of a domestic quarrel. Mrs. Arnold is in jail.

Steamer Ashore.

HALIFAX, June 4.—The steamer Bessie Morris from Montreal for Sydney, C. B., went ashore early this morning near White Point, Aspy bay, and is supposed to be a total loss. The crew were saved.

SHORT TALK.

Small Events Which Took Place at Different Places.

Miss Lillie Hull was murdered by a rejected lover at Monticello, Ill.

Charles Levi was yesterday elected assistant to Rabbi Wise, of Cincinnati.

Allen C. Day, who was shot by his son, near Loveland, O., May 15, died yesterday.

An editor arrested at Pembroke, Ky., for drunkenness, attacked an officer with a sword concealed in his cane.

A terrible storm at Andover, N. Y., worked considerable damage, carrying away bridges, lumber and small buildings.

The body of Dr. Harry Glover was found on the sidewalk at Terre Haute, Ind. He is supposed to have died from heart disease.

President Harrison is in constant telegraphic communication with Governor Beaver concerning the Johnstown calamity.

Neil Brown, Jr., reading clerk of the National house of representatives, was run over by a railroad train at Nashville and instantly killed.

Cincinnati merchants yesterday subscribed nearly $4,000 for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers. Relief meetings were held throughout the country.

At Shreve, Ky., a farmer named Dawes assaulted a mail carrier named Talbot, about a small sum of money he was out. Talbot shot and killed Dawes.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Quotations for the Money, Stock, Produce and Cattle Market for June 3.

NEW YORK.—Money 2 per cent. Exchange steady; governments steady.

Currency sixes, 119 bid; four coupons, 129 bid; four-and-a-halfs, 107½ bid.

The stock market this morning was fairly active, but the tone of speculation was weak and the first prices, compared with those of Saturday, were generally ½ to ¼ per cent. lower. Louisville and Nashville was especially weak and declined 1 per cent. During the first half hour prices made further decline, Burlington was pressed for sale and led the decline. It fell 1¼ per cent. Northern Pacific and Chicago gas came next in weakness. Toward 11 o'clock there was a steadier feeling. There was more buying and a partial recovery by midday. At 1 p. m. the market was steady.

An Effectual Extinguisher.

The Listener has a venerable friend who is very deaf, being able to hear conversation only through a long flexible tube with a trumpet at its extremity. This old gentleman knows how to use his silence compelling veto in a most graceful way sometimes. Not long ago, he did a young man a favor which was of immense value. The youth, overwhelmed with gratitude, visited his benefactor and seized the ear trumpet with emotion.

"Oh, Mr. ——," he exclaimed, "I can never"——

The old man removed the other end of the tube from his ear. The youth found himself talking to thin air. He went off into a ridiculous pantomime of entreaty, all the while brandishing the unconnected ear trumpet. The old man smiled.

"There are times," he said, "when it is very convenient to be deaf."

The young man was obliged to go away without having communicated to his benefactor a single word of thanks. —Boston Transcript.

Housekeeping a Trade.

The idea of this school seems to be to train such girls as must earn their living by housework, so that they may obtain good situations and their employers receive in return good work. This is well so far as it goes, but no housewife can tell when work is properly done unless she herself knows how it ought to be done; and she cannot know this unless she has been trained to do it. No trade or profession in the land requires more skill, good judgment and sound common sense than does housekeeping; and yet a man must learn his trade or profession before he is considered fit to practice it, a woman is put to housekeeping without any real knowledge as to its requirements or skill in doing it. This is all wrong. Put all girls through a thorough course of training in every department of housekeeping, whether they are to be mistresses or servants, and the question about housekeeping will be solved.—New York Star.

One Way to Lay a Ghost.

"Bill Skimmins buried his father in a most unhandsome way very near his barn," said the man at the other end of the table. "The neighbors thought 'it was a shame, and made a good deal of talk about it. One of them thought he would punish Bill by scaring him, and laid in wait for him near his father's grave on a dark night.

"As Bill went by on his way from the barn the man rose up as if from the tomb and exclaimed in a ghostly voice, 'I'm your father, Bill!'

"'Who said you warn't?' Bill answered. 'Git down thar inter yer hole whar yer belong!' and he struck him across the face with a bridle he was carrying such a rap that the would be alarmist carried the scars for months."—Lewiston Journal.

A Mexican woman dislocated her jaw in yawning, and had to ride twenty three miles to a physician.

The empress of Germany has received a necklace valued at $170,000, the gift of the sultan of Turkey.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, who is now engaged upon a society play, aspires to be a novelist, playwright and poetess.

President Carnot says that Perry Belmont is one of the few men of the world who have refused the cross of the Legion of Honor.

Mary Anderson, who is now being royally entertained in the great city of fogs, will spend a portion of the autumn in Scotland.

Alexander III of Russia is anything but a soldier emperor, and very little in sympathy with the army, especially the younger generation of officers.

Buffalo Bill's immense success in Paris is ascribed to the fact that he and his horse go far toward replacing the departed Boulanger and his black charger.

Algernon Charles Swinburne is engaged upon a long poem with a mediæval background. He evidently realizes that he has become a middle aged man.

Mr. Adolph Sutro is traveling about the world getting ideas and plans for the great public library building which he proposes putting up in San Francisco.

Justice Miller, who intends to retire from the supreme bench in the fall, is 73 years old, and has been a member of the court since 1862. He began life as a doctor.

One of the presents received by George W. Childs on his 60th birthday was a handsome Mexican sombrero, gorgeous with gold cord, that was the gift from a friend in the west.

The shah of Persia has granted to Baron Reuter the privilege of establishing "the Imperial Bank of Persia" with a capital of $20,000,000, and to have the exclusive right to issue notes.

The expected visit of the shah of Persia to England recalls the fact that no Persian monarch ever had gray hair. Gray hair is by universal custom prohibited in Persia and is never seen.

The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage said in Washington a few days ago: "I might have asked the president for the appointment as minister to Brooklyn, but I got that place some years ago."

The late William W. Harding, of Philadelphia, although less than 50 years old, had for 24 years been publisher of The Philadelphia Inquirer. He had also published 2,000,000 copies of the Bible.

Surgeon General Hamilton is said to be one of the handsomest men in Washington. He is rather short of stature, has raven black hair, large and dreamy eyes, and complexion clear as a healthy young girl's.

President Harrison devotes about an hour a day to newspapers. He reads the editorial comments cut out for him by Elijah Halford, spends a few moments on the telegraphic news and always looks over the baseball scores.

The popular impression of Mr. Parnell, that he is cold blooded and phlegmatic, is said by one of his parliamentary colleagues to be incorrect; he really is highly nervous and excitable, but has the great gift of absolute self control.

M. Hippolyte Carnot, son of the president of France, will shortly marry a young lady with a name so long that she will probably not be unwilling to change it for Carnot. At present she is Mlle. Marie Adelaide Eléonore Françoise Xavière de Tallet de Perret."

Autograph hunters will do well to let Dr. Hans von Bulow alone. He has engaged a clever young Russian to write replies to such notes for him, and she does so in Russian, generally with a touch of satire, as "Hans von Bulow, commercial traveler in Beethoven."

The prize fighter John L. Sullivan says if broken down business men would diet themselves their blood would not get sugared condition and their health become robust. He thinks the average business man eats and drinks too much for the sedentary life he leads.

Baron Albert de Prauchetti, who composes operas, expends immense sums on their production. His work, "Astard," was rehearsed for a month previous to its performance in Florence, 500 people being employed. The mise en scene was estimated as costing $400,000.

Gen. Boulanger's money, or rather the source of it, is to a case of no little importance on the part of the "Grandys." He spends money like an English nobleman married to the daughter of a millionaire citizen of Perkopolis who has died down the whole tribe.

The Duke of Cleveland is 86 years of age. He is the tenth of his title although the son of the first duke. Two of his brothers preceded him in the family honors. Malcolm the dukedom, like that of Buckingham and Chandos, is extinct, and the second earldom, that of Darnley, is held by a female.

Isaac Pitman, the inventor of the system of short hand which bears his name, is a good example of the uses of industries of large proportions. He began 50 years ago and worked alone for 25 years, spending from the evening until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning until he had made his system what he is getting, he could earn a million a day.

George Bancroft, the historian, is 89 years old. He was a friend of Andrew Jackson, and every day he walks down to the White House and down Bell avenue to the corner of the street on Pennsylvania avenue. The cable car conductor knows him as such by the name and he calls to his old horse as he turns the corner. Bancroft is now at Newport for his last appearance.

Emerson, in his recently published reminiscences, tells how when he was a boy he walked into an orchard with a number of boys who were to spend a whole week's vacation there, who received the strictest injunction from their parents that the children should bow to Dr. Heywood and other gentlemen met with by, and when Dr. Heywood stooped to pick and cleared his throat with a "Hem" worthy Emerson said "You need not hem, doctor, I shan't bow."

Count Tolstoi, the Russian author, can't write in a "fine drawing room." His study is devoid of carpets, pictures and statuary. An old lounge, two or three common tables littered with manuscripts of all kinds and two steel backed chairs constitute the only furniture in the room. The room is divided into two compartments by an unpainted wooden partition which does not reach up to the ceiling, and from which depend two wooden pegs—used by Tolstoi and his wife. In one corner stands a wooden spinning wheel, above it, hanging from a wooden peg, Tolstoi's great overcoat.

Two young Africans were one day fishing from a wharf, when one of them fell into the water, and was drowned. The survivor's grief was so uproarious that a sympathetic bystander inquired if the drowned boy was a relation. "No" said he, through his tears, "he warn't no relation, but he mout's well been—he had all de bait."

A Duty to Yourself.

It is surprising that people will use a common ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick-headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken and do not gripe. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co.

Woman who have no taste in dress often discover, on donning widow's weeds, that they are positively pretty creatures. This is simply because, as their costumes are entirely black, they have no longer a chance to indulge a riotous fancy among colors that will fight. Most faces are wonderfully softened by enveloping folds of crape. Those who find it so seem never to forget the dear departed, but always cling to mourning drapery. In nine cases out of ten this apparent devotion to the dead is only devotion to beauty-enhancing weeds. The few to whom it is unbecoming throw off the crape as soon as consistent with custom, and may really grieve in grays and browns and blues for a much longer period than the widow who persists in wearing black for years and years, ostensibly in faithful memory of the deceased, but really because she looks well in it.

Caution to Mothers.

Every mother is cautioned against giving her child laudanum or paregoric; it creates an unnatural craving for stimulants which kills the mind or the child. Acker's Baby Soother is specially prepared to benefit children and cure their pains. It is harmless and contains no Opium or Morphine. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co.

Loose's Red Clover Pills Cure Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, 25c per Box, 5 Boxes for $1.

Sold in Marion, O., by W. B. Foye, Druggist.

The Findly Courier does not appear to think there is danger from a scarcity of gas. It says: "Findly can furnish natural gas for every manufacturing establishment in the State and then have to spare to heat the homes of a hundred thousand people."

Is Life Worth Living?

Not if you go through the world a dyspeptic. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets are a positive cure for the worst forms of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. Guaranteed and sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co.

Dr. R. Musser, the eminent optician of Detroit, Mich., who is now a resident at Marion, will visit every town in this county. Any one suffering with weak eyes, or eyes abused by inferior glasses, should not fail to see him. Orders left at the postoffice will be promptly attended to. No extra charge for examination or visiting patients at their home. On Saturdays and Sundays he can be found in his office at residence, No. 25, Silver street. tuesdy

TALE OF A CHINESE THIEF

HE WAS NABBED BECAUSE OF HIS FRANKNESS.

His Great Fear Was That He Would Be Killed—The Scene Before the Celestial Magistrate—Thirty Lashes the Punishment Meted Out.

[Special Correspondence.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—An incident came under my observation one day which serve well to illustrate a peculiarity in the criminal methods in China.

I had constructed feeding coops in my yard, and kept a few hens and pigeons on hand for the purpose of feeding them pure food and grain before slaughtering them. One morning my cook came in to inform me that during the night our coops had been robbed.

I told him that it as soon as breakfast was over he should go into the city and capture the thief. I had no such thought as that he would succeed, or even attempt it.

But Lou Foo accepted the task with apparent relish. Some hours had elapsed, and I was in the back yard with my gun and dog whip in hand, having just unchained my setter dog, to go for an hour's snipe shooting on the marsh back of the city. I heard footsteps approach, and looking up there stood before me my cook, with a hen in one hand, and the other held the cue of a forlorn Chinaman. Foo's eyes fairly danced with delight at his success. He led his prisoner under a willow tree and passed the long braided head appendage over a branch of the tree, and drew it down until the fellow had to stand on tiptoe to keep the weight of his body from the hair of his head. There he literally suspended the fellow. Absalom like, by the hair of his head.

He then handed me the hen and asked if that was not the mother of the young chicks which had been left motherless by the night marauder. I replied that it looked very like her. He then said that I should feel of her craw. I did so, and sure enough it was filled with grains of corn. He then said that no native ever fed corn to hens; it was too expensive. We put the hen down and she went away with a motherly "cluck, cluck," and the chirping chicks gathered around her and she marched off direct to the feeding coop. That settled all doubts as to the identity of the hen.

Foo then related how he had gone into the market and examined all the hens there for sale. He had felted one after another, ostensibly to see if they were in good flesh, but in reality to feel of their craws in search of corn. At last his search was rewarded when he found this hen. He recognized her as the mother of the chicks, and closed a bargain for her purchase. It is customary for shoppers not to carry the heavy coin and pay for their purchases, but the shopkeepers bring the goods home and get their pay.

He thus led the way, followed by his unsuspecting victim.

I asked the suspended prisoner what he had to say. He began to deny having stolen the chickens, but the case was too clear to admit of doubt. I walked up to him and brought my dog whip down across his back with a keen blow.

My gun was in my left hand, and the cook said: "O, he'll kill you now."

At this threatening turn in affairs the now thoroughly frightened fellow began to beg for mercy. He acknowledged the whole thing and told how he came to rob the coops. This, in substance, is his story.

"I am not a chicken thief by profession. I follow stealing watches for my living. I return them for the reward, if it is large enough, and if not I sell them to a merchant in the city who buys stolen goods.

"Last night I was passing here, and business had not been good for a few days, and I climbed over the wall to see what I could find here. I saw that coop filled with fat hens, and decided to lift them. I sold all but two to the fence who buys my watches, and this one hens, having recently hatched a brood of chicks, I took it into the street for sale, and this fellow found me."

He agreed that if we would spare his life, he would conduct us to the storeof his accomplice. I called in a friend to accompany us, and told Foo to release his prisoner and lead him after us, and thus we entered the city and paraded in and out through the angular streets in search of a new adventure.

At last we came to a sharp turn in the street and our prisoner pointed with his chin toward a store across the way, and said that was the place. We entered and our prisoner saluted the proprietor familiarly by name, and asked how he liked his chickens. I watched the face of the man, but not a blush, nor did a muscle change or any other indication of recognition. He simply said, "Who are you, and what do you want?" Our man replied that as to himself he had the pleasure of his acquaintance, and as to his escort, well, they wanted their chickens back again. He knew nothing of any chickens. Our prisoner said if we would conduct him into the back part of the premises he would find our hens. We started to comply, when the stolid merchant, seeing that it was a game case, acknowledged the corn and paid us for our property. We then led our man to the magistrate's yamen.

We sent in our cards and were ushered into the court room by uniformed and liveried attendants. The mandarin greeted us with a cordial shaking of his own hands and asked our pleasure. We stood before a man of middle age, whose round face wore a smile at the contemplation of the group before him. He was clad in fine silk robes, which came down over the tops of high silk boots, and upon his head rested an oval shaped hat, upon the crown of which was the button which indicated the rank of his office.

He was the chief magistrate of the district, numbering more than 100,000 people, whom he kept in holy terror of his vengeance.

There stood before him myself, my friend, a gentleman from Pennsylvania, who stood six feet and had a long, flowing red beard, which gave him a patriarchal appearance; Lou Foo, my cook, a short, well fed young man, and our professional watch lifter, alias chicken thief. The latter hung his head in dire apprehension of what awaited him. His hands were tied together with the end of his cue, and through the cue, now forming a sort of loop as the handle to a jug, one end attached to his crown and the other tied about his wrist, was Foo's arm. We were a group which would have made even a photographer's camera smile had one been leveled upon us.

We repeated our story, relating each step taken during the day, and how we had apprehended the thief who now stood before his honor.

We stated that it was not the loss of a few hens we regarded so much as the precedent of having our premises invaded at night and our property carried away by thieves. He assured us that he fully appreciated the gravity of the case and congratulated us upon our success in catching the right man, and assured us that he would attend to the case.

He then asked the prisoner his name, where he hailed from, and how long he had been operating in the locality, and how many and who were his accomplices. Each and every question was promptly answered. The magistrate then pronounced sentence in the following form: "Thirty lashes on bare back, cangue thirty days in street, and thereafter immediate departure for other parts."

We did not care to witness the thirty lashes laid on, so we bade the court adieu, and went away, having passed a day as in a dream. We had an insight into Chinese character and methods, which rarely falls to the lot of Europeans to get, and which we think will suffice for that line of experience the rest of our days.

Look in the windows! Things so cheap. Things so desirable. Lovely shades of color. Lovely hats. Ditto ribbons and trimmings. Jewelry ravishing. Lovely everything. Except pocketbook. P. B. not lovely. Not full enough. Not like widow's flour barrel. Won't replenish itself. Common fault of purses. Self recuperative, self filling purse not yet invented.

Big store. Walk in. Ram jam, crush, squeeze, hustle, bustle, buzz. Boils over with women. Before and behind counters. Shrill cry every three seconds "Cash!" Women at the mark down ribbon counter. Ten deep. Sorting ribbons. Pulling ribbons. Snatching ribbons. Clawing ribbons. Tangling ribbons. Mad for ribbons. Mad with ribbons. Mad at each other. Mad at the ribbon sales girl. Sales girl mad at customer. General ribbon madness.

Air thick with vexation. Ditto perspiration. Melting mad women.

Sad place to see women. Upsets sentiment. Too much woman inwardness put outward.

But let us buy. Buy things we don't want. Buy things we're sick of a day afterward. Things we've no use for. Things we've no room for. Things to fill up the house. House full of 'em now. Too full. Parlor full. Upset things every time we turn round.

Woman making last purchase. Somewhat sad woman. Wants a gimcrack. Wants it very bad. Must have it. Pocketbook very low. Last two dollar bill. Afraid to ask husband for more. Filled up purse yesterday. He grumbled then. Nearly all gone now. And so soon! Trembles to go home. Gimcrack more fascinating than ever. Must have it. Must, must! must!! Can't bear to leave without it. But then! Ha! What shall she say? Poor woman. Is in misery. Dubitates. Reflects. Hesitates. Is lost. Resolves to buy. Desperate. Buys. Gimcrack wrapped up. Change made. Just enough for car fare. Leaves for home. Leaves more miserable than ever. Has secured gimcrack. Brings no comfort. Only pain. Goes out sad. Goes home. Goes to the funeral.

More women pouring in. More women pouring out. "Cash!" City women. Country women. Suburban women. Carriage carried women. Footman tended women. Job's turkey women. Mrs. Croesus. Mrs. Dives. Mrs. Midas. The widow Lazarus. The clergyman's wife. The sexton's wife. The general's wife. The high private's wife. The cook off duty. The servant out of place. Highflyer women. Lowflyer women. All pouring in. All pouring out. Stewing, babbling, burning, perspiring. All but perspiring. Warm work.

"Cash!"

Beautiful sex. Beautiful beings. Except when shopping. Too much handle. Too much bustle. Too much bubble. Too much molasses at once. Too many together. One plum good at a time. Box full repletion.

"Cash!"

Auction store. Pictures. Oil. Genteel auctioneer. Interesting man. Not too young. Not too old. Well dressed. Waxed mustache. Handsome eyes.

Fine talker. Good coaxer. Sarcastic at times. Very.

Talks. "Now, ladies and gentlemen, this picture must be sold. What am I bid? Ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three—two—do I hear two? I do, I hear two!"

Expostulates. "Ladies and gentlemen, this can't go on. Positively it can't. We must close this sale. Unless something is bid for a picture. Look at this picture, ladies and gentlemen. Look at it! A work of art. Frame alone worth five dollars."

Pauses. Surveys audience. Chokes with emotion. Seems disgusted. Buyers innovocable. Stone. Lead. Everybody feels small. Feel mean. We know the auctioneer thinks us a small, mean, contemptible lot. We feel his mind concerning us. We cower. We wither. We wish we were outside.

Auctioneer resumes. "Two dollars." Resignation and contempt in his voice. We think he will take the picture away. He will close the store.

A Voice—Two and a quarter!

Auctioneer—Two and a quarter, two and a quarter—quart, quart, quart, quart, quart—two and a quart and Sold!!

PRENTICE MULFORD.

Dakota's Fertility.

Two western men happened to meet one day, and from stories which they expected people to believe about the number of bushels of wheat and corn their land produced to the acre, they gradually passed to some which they doubtless expected their hearers to receive with a grain of allowance.

"I tell you what," said the man from Dakota, "a Norwegian woman went out raking and binding one summer, and dropped half a dozen darning needles. And, what do you think? The next year there was a large crop of knitting needles come up all over that part of the field."

"Oh, I can believe that," said the man from Washington territory, "but it is nothing to the richness of the land out in our country. Why, a year ago last summer a German woman dropped some darning needles in a field out there, and last summer the field was growing thick with a crop of—guess what?"

"Give it up."

"Nice hand knit woolen stockings, all ready to put on."—Youth's Companion.

A Sensible Agent.

An agent who had made a study of human nature stopped at a gate on Second avenue the other day and asked of a small boy digging plantains out of the grass:

"Bub, is your mother home?" "Yes, sir."

"Changed hired girls within a week?" "No, sir."

"House cleaning all done?" "Yes, sir."

"Got her new spring bonnet?" "She has."

"Children well?" "Yes, sir."

"Father go away good natured this morning?" "He did."

"Then I guess I'll ring the bell and try to sell her a picture."

She took two, and asked him to call in a day or two with a $7 family Bible.—Detroit Free Press.

HAD A RAT TRAP.

But He Made a Mistake in Waking Up a Passenger.

It was on one of the sound steamers coming down the other day. A man of middle age and much dignity had fallen asleep in his rocking chair on the promenade deck, when he was approached by a sharp nosed, hawk eyed man of 40, who had a parcel in his hand.

"Hey—you!" he exclaimed as he slapped the sleeping man on the shoulder.

"Sir! How dare you!" sternly demanded the latter, as he roused up.

"I haven't done anything that I can be sent to state prison for, have I?"

"What is your business with me, sir?"

"That's better. That's coming to the point. Let me draw up a chair and take it easy as we chat. You told me at Stonington that you thought you would order twelve dozen as a starter. Suppose you double the order and take 10 per cent. discount?"

"Sir! What are you talking about, and who do you take me for?" demanded the man.

"Your name is—is Faxon—firm of Faxon & Brown, dealers in hardware, isn't it?"

"No, sir!"

"What! Why, I'd bet a farm again a wheelbarrow that it was! Didn't we have a conversation at Stonington?"

"No, sir!"

"Didn't I show you my centennial rat trap and exhibit its workings?"

"No, sir!"

"Didn't I demonstrate the fact that it would catch and hold anything from a mouse to a raccoon, and that the public was bound to buy millions of 'em?"

"Sir! Do you intend to insult me?" shouted the other.

"Not for Joseph. I never insulted nobody. It's curious if I have made a mistake. Didn't you spend half an hour yesterday investigating my anti-friction, double leverage, anti-cogless centennial rat trap, warranted to clean out a whole county of rats, mice, chipmunks, gophers and rabbits inside of ten days, or no pay?"

"No, sir! No, sir!"

"Well, that's queer! I'd take my affidavy it was you. And you didn't order twelve dozen, to be shipped the first of the week?"

"Never! You ought to have more sense and manners, sir! Go away about your business!"

"My business is to sell the centennial rat trap—only thing ever invented to entice rats without bait; no delicate machinery to get out of order; no cost for steam power to run it. If I have made a mistake I beg your pardon."

"Then go away, sir—go away before I forget my position and do you injury!"

"You wouldn't injure a feller for wanting to sell you a rat trap which lays over all other inventions in America, would you? If you ain't the man who ordered the twelve dozen, you may want to give me an order just the same. I will show you how it works."

"No, you won't! Go away, sir—go, or I'll do you harm! You are the most impudent rascal I've met in a year!"

"And you won't look at my trap?"

"No, sir!"

"And you want me to leave you in solitude?"

"At once, sir!"

"Well, I'll do it. Some folks force their inventions upon the public. That ain't my style. My centennial rat trap speaks for itself. I go, sir; but I leave my card. Peruse it at your leisure. All mail will reach me promptly at that address. Send you a dozen on trial, or give a discount of 5 per cent. on all over three dozen. Send in your order as early as possible, as the season is forward. Au revoir, sir."—New York Sun.

Mr. McCloskey's Sworn.

The Hon. Joseph Chamberlain was being shown about the Capitol at Washington by Senator Sherman, and finally was taken down into the engine room, where a powerful Harris-Corliss was driving the ventilating machinery.

Attracted by the beauty of the monster, Mr Chamberlain turned to McCloskey, who was oiling some part of it, and asked:

"What is the horse power of that engine?"

McCloskey looked at him for a moment, partly with pity and partly with contempt, and then replied:

"Horse power! That nigger runs by steam!"—Troy Times.

Was Big for His Age.

Merchant (to applicant for situation)—What is your name?

Applicant—Bill Jones.

M.—How old are you?

A.—Fifteen!

M.—Fifteen! You are very big for your age.

A.—Oh! you see, my father is a plumber.

M.—What has that to do with it?

A.—I'm a plumber's Bill. That's always big for his age.—Boston Courier.

He Willingly Complied.

Manager—What do you want, Mr Wankbrak?

Mr. W—I want you to raise my salary.

M.—Oh, that's all right, Mr. Wankbrak; I'll do that willingly; I was afraid you were going to ask for some cash down.—Yankee Blade.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the System, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine—of health.

Free from alcohol and opium; composed of expensive herbs and roots, with a fine, delicate flavoring.

How to Cook Husbands.

ED. STAR: The following recipe in cooking, from "The Universalist," is from a friend of yours. The recipe will undoubtedly be of benefit to many and you can file a copy for future use.

"A lady has written a recipe for cooking husbands so as to make them tender and good. It is as follows:

"In buying your husbands do not be decided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel, nor by the golden tint as if you wanted salmon. Be sure and select him yourself, as tastes differ. Do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none, unless you will patiently learn how to cook him. A preserving kettle of the finest porcelain is the best; but, if you have nothing but an earthenware pipkin, it will do with care. See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings neatly sewed on. Tie him in a kettle by a strong silk cord called comfort, for the one called duty is apt to break; they are apt to fly out of the kettle and be burned and crusted on the edges, since like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive. Make a clear, steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Sit him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he splutters and frizzes, do not be anxious, some husbands do this until they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectors call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper of any account. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently. If thus treated, you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children; and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become too careless and set him in a cool place."

Mayor Gailey's Guests.

Mayor Gailey, having a wish to know the number of boys who were born in Marion in 1876, the year of the birth of his son, James C. Gailey, who is now dead, asked Rev. Burns and the public school teachers to take a census of the schools and, if possible, to determine the exact numbers. Their returns show there are 23 in the common schools and 7 in the catholic schools, and I were learned of who were out of school, making a total of 34. After learning their names, he decided on a pleasing manner in which to entertain them; so, taking all of them to his office, he presented each with a badge, bearing the initials J. C. G., and told them they should be known as the Juvenile Centennial Guards. He then purchased a cap for each of them and marched them to the show grounds, where they witnessed the performance, after which Constable Jones and Mayor Gailey headed the procession and marched to Medley's ice cream parlor, where all partook of the delicious refreshments. The boys then returned to their homes and will doubtless hold the occasion in long remembrance, with a good wishes for the kind hearted Mayor.

A Pioneer Dead.

Benjamin Stager, one of the oldest actual pioneers of Marion county, died at his home in Bowling Green township, Saturday, aged about 90 years. Mr. Sager had lived for over SIXTY years in Bowling Green township, and was conversant with the affairs of the county for three-quarters of a century.

Mr. J. S. Reed, in speaking of the death of Mr. Sager, says the old gentleman had one of the most remarkable memories that he ever knew, that he could repeat a sermon or address after having heard or read it, and know the scripture so well that he would instantly correct a misquotation of any passage.

The deceased was buried at Essex on Sunday.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, Death has taken from us our schoolmate, John P. Dombaugh, a member of the Marion High school, therefore,

RESOLVED, That by his death we have lost an esteemed companion, an industrious classmate and an exemplary young man and that we shall hold in fond remembrance the many happy hours spent in the company of our deceased associate.

RESOLVED, also, That we hereby give expression to our sad bereavement and tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and brothers.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be printed in the city papers and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

EAGER TO BITE

The Old, Old Game Tried at the Show Grounds, and Only the Bankers Save the "suckers."

Robbins' circus had innumerable "fakes" following it and played openly and—profitably, of course. Among them was the grey-whiskered, old three card racket, and notwithstanding the times it and its victims have been exposed, there were fellows Monday ready to sacrifice themselves on the bunko altar, attempting to beat sharpers at their own game.

Among these was the aged John Riley, from the vicinity of Green Camp. Mr. Riley was introduced to the three-card game and won of course. He had called the turn for $700—lucky fellow! But he must show that he could have paid the $700, if he had lost, before he could draw his prize. The sharks counted over $700 in an inviting way and Mr. Riley's eyes watered at the big scoop he had made. He hastened down town and appeared at Fahey's bank for a loan of $700. Cashier Edmundson suspicioned some game was up—Mr. Riley "only wanted the money a couple hours"—and he refused the loan. The eager victim then applied to the Deposit bank, a note was drawn, and the customer having protested that it was for no confidence or bunko game, Mr. Allen began counting out the money. Then Mr. Riley could no longer contain himself and he let out the lucky hit he had made. Mr. Allen immediately withdrew the money he had counted out and told Mr. Riley to tear up his note. Then the eager victim had his eyes opened, and explained he was already out $20. Mr. Riley was accompanied by Henry Love and officers and went to the show ground to recover that, but a "capper" had tumbled to the trouble ahead and the gang of sharks were not in shape to be taken in.

A gentleman named Zeig also won an hundred dollar prize, but the banks saved him that sum, by suspicioning the game, and refusing any loan.

DROPPED DEAD

Elder Louis Sites, of Brush Ridge, Drops Dead in His Door Yard.

The residents of Brush Ridge and vicinity were startled Monday by one of its best and most respected citizens dying so suddenly. The one so suddenly called to his creator was Elder Louis Sites, of the old school Baptist Church, a man of 69 years. Elder Sites had not been well for some days but he was able to be up and around, and his condition was not even regarded serious. On Monday forenoon he was walking about the yard, at his home, when he suddenly fell dead, dying from rheumatism of the heart.

The deceased leaves a large and highly esteemed family, and his death is deeply mourned. He was an highly respected man.

The funeral occurs at 10 o'clock a. m. Wednesday, from the late home of deceased.

OBITUARY.

DOMBAUGH.—John Paul, son of Philip and Sarah E. Dombaugh, died May 31st, 1889, aged 19 years, 4 months and 1 day.

He was born in Marion on January 30th, 1870, and died May 31st in the same house in which he was born. He was next to the youngest of nine sons, and is the second to answer the summons of death. Of the surviving brothers all were present at the funeral excepting one, who is in California.

The funeral, which occurred on Sunday afternoon, June 2d, was conducted by Rev. W. E. Thomas, assisted by Rev. John Stokes, and was one of the largest ever known in Marion. The body was borne by the six brothers, and was attended to the cemetery by the pupils of the High school and the employes of the Steam Shovel works, with all of whom the deceased had been recently associated.

Department of the Interior.

To the Medical Profession:

The various medical associations and the medical profession will be glad to learn that Dr. John S. Billings, surgeon U. S. army, has consented to take charge of the report on the mortality and vital statistics of the United States as returned by the Eleventh census.

As the United States has no system of registration of vital statistics, such as is relied upon by other civilized nations for the purpose of ascertaining the actual movement of population, our census affords the only opportunity of obtaining near an approximate estimate of the birth and death rates of much the larger part of the country, which is entirely unprovided with any satisfactory system of state and municipal registration.

In view of this, the census office, during the month of May this year, will issue to the medical profession throughout the country "Physician's Registers" for the purpose of obtaining more accurate returns of deaths than it is possible for the enumerators to make. It is earnestly hoped that physicians in every part of the country will co-operate with the census office in this important work. The record should be kept from June 1st, 1889, to May 31st, 1890. Nearly 20,000 of these registration books were filled up and returned to the office in 1880, and nearly all of them used for statistical purposes. It is hoped that double this number will be obtained for the Eleventh census.

Physicians not receiving Registers can obtain them by sending their names and addresses to the census office, and, with the Register, an official envelope which requires no stamp will be provided for their return to Washington.

It all medical and surgical practitioners throughout the country will lend their aid, the mortality and vital statistics of the Eleventh census will be more comprehensive and complete than they have ever been. Every physician should take a personal pride in having this report as full and accurate as it is possible to make it.

It is hereby promised that all information obtained through this source shall be held strictly confidential.

TO AID THE SUFFERING

Public Meeting at City Hall Tonight to Raise Funds for Johnstown Sufferers.

Mayor Gailey has issued a timely proclamation calling for a meeting at City Hall tonight, in which generous Marion can make a practical expression of her sympathy for the victims of the Johnstown horror. Aid has been asked and responses are being made from every city. Marion is never backward on occasions of this kind and ought to contribute liberally for the relief of the distressed in the neighboring state. Let the meeting be largely attended.

A Saloon Fight.

Jim Flannigan and Pat Thacker had some difficulty in Phil Myers' saloon, on north Main street, Monday afternoon. After quarreling some time they were ordered out by the proprietor and they retired into the back yard and concluded they would end the trouble by a fight to a finish. There being no witness present, they went at it in a rough-and-tumble fashion, regardless of rules. Flannigan received a blow upon the cheek which felled him, insensible to the ground. After Thacker had departed Flannigan recovered sufficiently to walk into the saloon, where he was found to be quite seriously injured, having a horrible gash across his left cheek, which he claims was done with brass knuckles or some other blunt instrument. He was taken to Dr. Clark's office, where his injuries were attended.

Thacker was arrested later in the day and placed in the county jail to await a hearing before Mayor Gailey this morning, which took place, but as Thacker failed to have witnesses present which he desired, the trial was postponed until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

F. W. THOMAS, W. M.

From the Mexican capitol the gratifying information is received that Mr. Ryan, the new American minister, is greatly pleased with the country, and "believes he will like it still better as he becomes more acquainted." It would be very sad if Mr. Ryan's pleasing expectations in this respect should be disappointed. To be compelled to live for four years in a country he disliked, in order to draw a salary with which he is deeply enamored, would be a most exasperating complication, though Mr. Ryan would doubtless contrive in some way to endure it
